County's unemployment lowest in northern Mich.

Crawford County's unemployment rate of 6.7% is the lowest in northern lower Michigan, according to June, 1992, figures released by the Michigan Employment Security Commission (MESC).

Crawford County's 6.7 unemployment rate was also well below the state average of 9.0% for unemployment in June, 1992.

The 13 counties in northern lower Michigan (Antrim, Benzie, Charlevoix, Cheboygan, Crawford, Emmet, Grand Traverse, Kalkaska, Leelanau, Manistee, Missaukee, Otsego, and Wexford) had an average unemployment rate of 11.0% for June, 1992.

The Upper Peninsula (15 counties) had an unemployment rate of 10.6%. The Detroit area (Wayne, Oakland, Macomb, Monroe, Livingston, Lapeer, and St. Clair counties) had an unemployment rate of 9.2%. The Flint area (Genesee County) had an unemployment rate of 12.3%. The Saginaw area (Saginaw, Bay, and Midland counties) had an unemployment rate of 8.5%.

"Crawford's unemployment rate historically has been lower than the other counties and one of the big reasons is Camp Grayling," said MESC analyst Dan Lopez, from the Traverse City office. "Crawford County has a higher percent of government jobs compared to other counties."

Out of 4,725 wage and salary jobs reported in Crawford County during June, 1,025 of those, or 21.7% of the total, were government jobs.

In Otsego County, government jobs accounted for only 14.6% of the total number of jobs.

Crawford's unemployment rate has been dropping since 1981 when it hit 18.2%. Since 1981, Weyerhaeuser, Georgia-Pacific's Resin Plant, K mart, and other new businesses have opened in the county.

The June MESC figures showed 500 residents unemployed in Crawford County and 6,975 residents employed. Out of the 6,975 employed residents, 4,725 held wage or salary jobs within the county and the rest were self-employed, worked at jobs outside the county, or worked at agricultural jobs.

Fire claims life of 16-year-old

By Lori Swarthout

A garage fire proved fatal to a young Grayling resident Wednesday evening, August 12. Matthew VanSickle was killed by smoke inhalation, according to the Crawford County Sheriff Department.

An E-911 call reporting a structure fire on Evergreen Drive in Grayling Township was received at 6:20 p.m. Arriving on the scene, emergency units--including the Crawford County Sheriff Department, Grayling Fire Department, Frederic Township Fire Department and North Flight E.M.S.--found a garage fire burning out of control.

Intense heat from the blaze kept rescue workers from entering the structure. After bringing the fire under control, workers discovered the body of VanSickle.

The Michigan State Police Fire Marshall Division is currently investigating the cause of the fatal fire. No evidence of any explosion has yet been found.

VanSickle, the son of Geraldine VanSickle, of Grayling, and Harold "Bud" VanSickle, of Grayling, would have been a junior at Grayling High School this fall. He was a member of the GHS football and basketball teams. A funeral service was held Sunday, August 16, with Ryan Green, Jeff Mier, Chad Ventline, Dan Curtis, Dan Watson, and Paul Hartman as pallbearers. A full obituary appears inside.

Commissioners spend $97,650 for computer software, services

By Lori Swarthout

County commissioners voted to accept a $97,650 contract for software and support services offered by New World Incorporated, of Troy.

Prosecuting attorney John Huss reviewed the contract with commissioners in the morning session of their regular meeting, August 11. Included in the five year agreement are provisions for maintenance and training, as well as programming for the county's new I.B.M. AS-400 hardware, purchased June 17, from proceeds of the landfill sale.

Huss indicated that the contract appeared solid and advised commissioners that the contract would require them to hire a liaison to work with New World in getting the new mainframe computer up and running. This liaison would have to become more familiar with the terms of the contract than the commissioners, and would be accountable for meeting deadlines for database development stipulated in the contract.

Debate on the contract took place after lunch. Commissioners were divided on the issue of purchasing additional software which would integrate 911 with the mainframe. Central Dispatch Director Larry Akers indicated that 911 could more efficiently serve the county with mainframe integration, saying "In-house enhancement would allow a more complete history of 911 use, and allow us to keep more up to date records of training and equipment held by various emergency departments."

Akers also said that 911 would need access to the new jail program if not integrated with the mainframe. New World representative, John Reichenbach, indicated that software packages deleted from the contract would lessen the discount received by the county. Reichenbach said that New World hopes to use the county as a model for other units of government in northern Michigan and has boosted the discount on the complete package as high as possible with this in mind.

Grayling Township supervisor Arnold T. Stancil said that townships should be provided with information regarding the cost to each township of integrating with the new system.

Stancil was supported in his concerns by Beaver Creek Fire Chief Ed Holtcamp who said the proposed software is not compatible with current township computers and that no firm costs regarding integration were given to townships.

Reichenbach indicated that cost information could not be provided to the townships until more information on their systems (only two townships are currently computerized) is received.

Commissioner Dennis Long stated that he recalls no discussion of creating statutes forcing townships to participate in the new system. It would be up to individual townships to decide if it would be cost effective for them to integrate with the county system.

Commission chair Lee Riley asked New World if they could at least provide some information as to who could work up cost data for the townships. Reichenbach indicated that New World would be willing to work with the townships wishing to integrate with the mainframe.

The board approved the contract, worth $97,650, including software packages for county financial management, human resource services, clerk's statistics, property tax management, public administration, police records, and computer aided dispatch, which includes interface and jail management subprograms, late in the afternoon.

In other action, the commissioners voted to allow county employees to participate in a 403B retirement plan and to allow the Michigan State Police to store bomb squad equipment at the Fish Hatchery.

Commissioner Brian Hulbert reported that City Environmental Services was working on a recycling program.

Grayling native's art goes national

By Nancy Lemmen

Grayling native Fred Niederer is included in the latest edition of Artists of New England, a catalog sent to major art galleries and architectural firms throughout the country, including the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

Now a resident of Augusta, Maine, he was one of the fourth generation of Niederers to be born in Grayling. He said his great grandfather came from Appenzel, Switzerland, an area known for its folk art.

Parents Fred and Mae Niederer still live in Grayling, as well as sister Lynette Corlew and brother Dave.

Another brother, Phil, lives in Holland. While attending school, Niederer's 2nd grade teacher, Ruth Robertson, "saw my art ability and allowed me to nurture it."

He said he also recalls Fay Bovee's 5th grade class, where he and Becky Kangas were permitted to work together on an art project.

He graduated in 1971 from Grayling High School, where he studied art during his senior year under Marcia Balcken.

"I had my own agenda when it came to art," said Niederer. "And the teacher let me do what I wanted. She gave me credit for interior design for a model house I made in industrial arts class under Jim Constantine."

Shop instructor Eli Beery was "a great influence," he said. "He told my parents a person with his (Niederer's) artistic abilities comes along once in 10,000."

Following high school, however, Niederer received no formal training in art, with the exception of some correspondence courses from the Minnesota School of Art. Instead, he attended Prairie Bible College in Three Hills, Alberta, Canada.

Since then, "I've held so many different jobs that my resume looks like a rap sheet," said Niederer.

He was self-employed as a landscape gardener, house painter, tree surgeon, sign carver/painter and he worked at Ben Franklin Family Center.

Niederer started painting while living in Grayling. An early 1970s work depicts a greenhouse, located where Borchers' now stands, that was purchased by his grandfather and one of the Borchers in the '40s.

But basically, he said, his art was put on hold. "The idea of living as an artist in this locality would have been hard to do."

A better art market drew him, wife Anita and their five children to Maine

Thirty-seven boys, aged 11 through 14, have completed the first week of football practice preparing for the upcoming season of tackle football.

The Grayling Redskins in their charter year will square off against a twinning raiders team on Sunday, September 6. Game time is 4 p.m. at Twining, southeast of West Branch. Other teams on the schedule included the Gladwin Broncos, Ogemaw Browns, and Standish Lions, with scrimmages planned against Kalkaska, Cadillac and Three Rivers.

On August 30, the team, in cooperation with Ray's Canoes, will also participate in a river cleanup project from Grayling to Burtons Landing.

The Station 5 North Flight crew has volunteered to put on a basic first aid demonstration for all players and coaches.

Team goals for this first year are to learn the basic fundamentals of tackle football, while having a lot of fun. Good study habits in school are also stressed by the coaching staff.

All players on the team have agreed to a strict standard of rules. Among these are: not using any type of alcohol or tobacco product; maintaining passing grades in school; good grooming habits; and being respectful to fellow teammates, coaches, and opposing players.

The Grayling Youth Booster Club has donated $6,000 of the needed $8,000 toward the purchase of gear.

Lovells Open supports local fire department

By Lori Swarthout

The Pat Harwood Memorial Lovells Open golf tournament recently donated $500.00 to the Lovells Volunteer Fire Department. According to tournament committee member Gary Boyd, the funds have accumulated since the tournament's early years.

Impressed with the new Medical First Responders unit of the department, tournament committee members decided to assist another local organization in its growth.

The Pat Harwood Memorial Lovells Open was first organized in 1979 to honor long time Lovells resident and businessman Pat Harwood. In 1984 the tournament became a 3-man scramble, the form it has held in the last two years at Fox Run Country Club. The 108 slots in the tournament always sell out quickly.

New this year are 50/50 raffle tickets, proceeds of which will also benefit the Lovells volunteer fire department. Anyone interested in purchasing tickets should stop at Lovells area businesses for more information before the tournament, September 12.

Local persons help make Weyerhaeuser's Open House special day

I would like to express my appreciation, in your newspaper, for the fabulous open house hosted by the Weyerhaeuser Company.

I would especially like to commend Lisa Upton, an employee hostess. She was kind enough to hand deliver my daughter's intact purse, which was left there, to my house.

Lisa informed me that Undersheriff Tom Coors had kept the unattended purse under his observation and during that time no one touched it, and thus I also commend him by adding to the well coordinated activity.

My daughter and I are grateful to everyone that helped make it such a happy day.

Letters To The Editor

River House Shelter's services important to area

Some recent incidents in the four county area covered by River House Shelter have made me realize just how important the Shelter and its services are to the residents of Crawford, Ogemaw, Oscoda and Roscommon Counties.

It wasn't that I didn't already know that, because I have been involved in various ways with the Shelter programs since inception. It is just that those instances have reiterated to me how glad I am that I decided to get involved in the program.

As Chairperson of the Shelter's Ogemaw County Task Force, I try to act as a liaison between the Shelter's staff and the Ogemaw County area. I provide a variety of information and services to the Shelter and they do the same for me — all in the name of keeping everyone aware of the wonderful services the program has to offer those women, children, and men who are victims of domestic violence.

I just want to remind our community of the importance of the program, thank those who have supported it so generously in the past and urge each of you to continue the involvement and support which has made the program such a success. We are out in your community raising funds for the continuance of the program — look us up and volunteer to help.

Parent says county doesn't help Special Olympians with practices

This letter is being written to you to let you know that as parents of Special Olympians that we shouldn't be treated the way we were Thursday night, July 23. We had the county fairground move instead of forcing them to move after their game started. We have more respect for other people than they do for our team.

It seems to us that Crawford County is the only one in the state of Michigan that we have trouble with when it comes to our athletic Special Olympians being able to use any field or gym we need without any trouble from other teams coming in and making us move or leave all together. We know Shawono Center can't say anything about what happen July 23 at the county fairgrounds but since we think they help build it and take care of it, they should have more right to use the field than any one. We should be thanking them for what work they do instead of doing what happen July 23.

We as parents of S.O. athletes had trouble with getting any softball field or gym that we needed for our game practice for the last ten years. Last winter we had the middle school for soccer practice when a church group came in twice and told us to leave. We don't think it's right that other people don't think that our practice isn't as important as any one else. What we would like to know is why the girls team couldn't move to the Millikin

Illinois family sells AuSable home due to river problems

I hate to declassify the beautiful AuSable but before you slip on those waders and choose your favorite weapon (my family has always cheerfully referred to our fishing rods as weapons) you are already out gunned. A couple years ago we looked upon this national treasure as the long sought after place to build our home for future retirement. After one summer of torment on the section known as the holy water we sold our shiny new home on the banks of what turned out to be miles of public abuse. The denigration comes in the form of hundreds of canoes a day, jet fighters peeling off from a bomb run, helicopters at tree top, and a National Guard with heavy artillery that owns the town.

After speaking to the military and local law enforcement it boiled down to this. Public drunkenness, canoe liveries, and military payrolls take precedence over preservation of this wild and scenic river and citizens' rights. Whoever said "the public be damned" must have been educated in Grayling, Michigan.

Our tiny dock and front yard was also a stopping place for people with biological needs. It seems like a particularly strange choice when you consider there are many stream side state parks and miles of uninhabited shore. The problem stems from canoe liveries who permit cases of beer to be loaded into the canoes and a town that is too paralyzed by worship of the almighty dollar to limit the number of canoes launched, and regulate the canoeists via law enforcement.

This is an example of a little piece of America that is out of control. It was painful to sell our place on the AuSable after only one year but I think there are plenty of other places that won't

Resident wants to vote at township office

For years I have paid my taxes in Beaver Creek Township because that is where I live and have always voted. Last year on school election day it rained continuously. It was cold. The roads were scary. A school bus was in trouble half a block from the school. Someone could have easily been hurt or killed, especially senior township residents having to go fifteen miles or so to vote.

This is not a yes or no school matter I am speaking of. I am not an absent voter. I am here as are others. I would like the right to vote in the school election where I have always voted in safety, convenience, and with dignity. What can we do to bring this about?

Lessons from voters: Huh?

VOTERS HAVE SPOKEN
once again in Michigan's latest primary, sending their messages loud and clear across the land. Here are some of the instructive insights that could be learned from the August 4 primary:

LESSON NO. 1—Incumbency is no longer an automatic certainty of reelection.

Prime exhibit is U.S. Rep. Guy VanderJagt, completing his 26th year in the U.S. House, which followed earlier service in the Michigan Senate. Mr. VanderJagt was dumped in the Republican primary by newcomer Peter Hoekstra of Holland, in his first political run. The district is usually heavily Republican.

"There is a ferocious tide against incumbents running across the country, and I could not swim strongly enough to offset it," said the surprised loser.

Other cases of incumbent dumping can be observed, too. State Rep. Ralph Ostling of Roscommon, losing after 20 years to Allen Lowe of Grayling, is another political shocker. And there are other examples, especially in local and county races. Obviously incumbency is little if any advantage.

LESSON NO. 2—Running for reelection is still a pretty safe bet.

Mr. VanderJagt is the only sitting congressman to lose. Two others fended off heralded challenges rather handily — Rep. John Conyers and Rep. Barbara Rose Collins both of Wayne County.

All other sitting Congress members were not even challenged in the primary.

Most incumbent members of the state legislature also faced no challenge, and of those who did, only a handful lost.

It's still better to be an incumbent than a challenger.

LESSON NO. 3—Money does not control results.

In Oakland County's 11th Congressional district, three candidates fought for the vacant Republican nomination. State Sen. David Honigman reportedly spent about $700,000 and former Judge Alice Gilbert about $500,000, while the third candidate, Joe Knollenberg, spent about $169,000 — which is still a lot of money. Who won? Why, Mr. Knollenberg, of course.

The spending equation in the VanderJagt-Hoekstra contest was even more stark. Mr. VanderJagt, according to one report, poured more than $500,000 into his campaign, while the winner, Mr. Hoekstra, reportedly spent only $40,000.

In the open 7th congressional district in southern Michigan, State Sen. John Schwarz outspent three opponents for the GOP nomination — and wound up second to the more modestly budgeted State Sen. Nick Smith.

Other cases also can be found where spenders lost. Money does not rule.

LESSON NO. 4—Money talks in politics; candidates who spend money have huge advantages over poorer rivals.

Running for an open Republican nomination for Congress in the mid-Michigan 8th district, Dick Chrysler and Sandy Pensler fought tooth and nail, and lavished lots of dollars on splashy campaigns.

They finished one and two — Mr. Chrysler won the nomination — leaving two other candidates far behind, including State Rep. Margaret O'Connor of Ann Arbor a poor third. One compelling reason is she did not spend the money that Mr. Chrysler and Mr. Pensler committed.

As a candidate, it's still better to have money than not. For confirmation wait for the November general election results.

LESSON NO. 5—Voters are thirsting for new faces.

Cases in point are the above-cited Mr. Hoekstra, the novice who dumped the 26-year veteran, and Mr. Knollenberg, not as well known publicly as either of the folks he defeated.

More examples abound, especially at the local levels of competition.

Clearly, voters crave new leadership.

LESSON NO. 6—Experience aids candidacy; even retreats welcome.

Up in the Straits-straddling 1st Congressional district, an open seat attracted three Republican and three Democratic candidates. Who won? Former State Rep. Bart Stupak, a frequent candidate for something, won the Democratic nomination and Phil Ruppe won the Republican nomination.

That's the same Phil Ruppe who served in Congress for six terms from the northern areas before he vacated the seat to run for the U.S. Senate in the late 1970s.

Point again to the 86th State House district, just north of Lansing. Winner of the GOP nomination in a landslide was Alan Cropsey — former House member, former state senator, former judicial candidate, who's been out of office for a couple of years now.

Or how about Sen. Smith, apparently headed for Congress, who spent four years in the state House and 10 years in the state Senate. He's been on the ballot or in office for every election since 1976.

All the winning faces are not exactly new. Experience still helps.

SO THE VOTERS have spoken once again in Michigan's latest election.

Just what did they say? Well ... it all depends.

Let's Talk About It

By Joe Murphy

When the iron horse reached here in the summer of 1873 Crawford Station was then the name of the settlement which later was named Grayling. Among those early settlers we note the following names: Bradley, Lound, Shellenbarger, Leece, West, Horton, Price, Buck, Bell, and Masters. William A. Masters was Grayling's first government appointed postmaster. The above is by no means a complete list of residents just some of those located east of Grayling. H. C. McKinley who arrived here in 1878 gave those names as people residing in Grove township about five miles east of Grayling. Back in 1933 the Avalanche and H. B. Smith Jr. of Bay City sponsored an essay contest about life on the AuSable in the early days. It was won by H. C. McKinley who wrote nearly twelve typewritten pages of real solid history of this area. For instance he tells that when he built his home he bought five thousand feet of clear pine lumber from James Goodale who had a mill here in town for four dollars a thousand board feet.

Nick Shellenbarger hauled the lumber to his building site with a team of oxen making two trips a day. (I sure would like to buy good lumber at that price today.) He tells of the abundance of game in the area at that time which included lynx, panthers, and wolves, which were pretty well gone by my time.

There were no game or fish laws in those days and he talks about trips on the river where hundreds of Grayling fish were caught every day.

Dogs could be used to chase deer or a lantern on a canoe could be used for jack lighting deer along the river. For instance he tells of a visit by Rev. William Putnam who was postmaster and druggist at Frederic at that time. A night hunt along the river on a fine June night and they soon encountered five deer of which the Reverend killed two of them. Today such activities would be considered criminal, but then it was just a means of contributing to the family larder. As I have said before the well fed man is a sportsman, the hungry man is a hunter.

Again the caring folks in this area are responding well to a good cause. I have been working for the Walkathon by Jim Haller for Muscular Dystrophy. Jim's brother Mark has a form of the disease. The Muscular Dystrophy Association has been helping Mark so Jim is making about a two hundred mile walk as a means of repaying them. Jim will leave North Bradley on the 22nd of August and arrive here on the 25th. His walk will end at Mackinaw City on the 30th. If you wish to contribute to this worthy cause, donations will be accepted at the Avalanche office, Goodale's Bakery or the Museum. Or you can mail them direct to me at 603 Maple here in Grayling, please make checks payable to Muscular Dystrophy Association. Let's show that Crawford County cares.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED—Roy and Barbara Lovely of Grayling announce the engagement of their daughter, Shawn Marie to Gerry Runco, son of Guy and Mary Runco of Pittsburg, PA. The bride-elect, a 1984 graduate of Grayling High School, has a bachelor of arts degree from Central Michigan University, and is presently dance team director and Spanish teacher at MacArthur High School, Houston, Texas. Her fiancé is a graduate of Pittsburg Catholic High School, has a bachelors degree from Slippery Rock University in Pennsylvania and a master degree from Stephen F. Austin University in Texas, and is presently head football coach and athletic coordinator at Dueitt Middle School in Spring, Texas. A June, 1993, wedding is planned at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Grayling.

Daileys celebrate 50th

Edward and Leona Dailey of Frederic, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on August 16 with a dinner party given by their daughter, Mary Beth Chidester and husband, Lynn of Houghton Lake; and their son, William K. Dailey and wife, Joan, of Lansing.

Also attending were grandchildren, Vicki and husband, Dave Thomas, of Sault Ste. Marie; Lori and husband, Neil Byce III, and great grandson, Neil IV of Gainesville, Fla.; Andy Chidester and friend, Jennifer Porath of Houghton Lake; Randi Chidester and friend, Jeff Thompson of Grand Rapids. Unable to attend were grandson, Captain Kevin Dailey and wife, Wanda, and great granddaughter, Taylor Victoria, of Rapid City, S.D.

Ed's sister, Jane and husband, Carl Osterberg of Indian River also attended with their three sons, David, Gary, and Tom and their wives and children; and friends, Mollie Neilson of Traverse City; and Ken and Shirley Macauley and family of Clarkston also were in attendance.

The couple were married December 5, 1942, in Rolla, Missouri, by Pastor Walter Bradford. They chose a summer date for the 50th celebration to avoid the winter weather and take advantage of their grandchildren's visit.

in 1985. (They now have eight children and are expecting their ninth.)

"There are more people with money there," he said. "They traditionally came to Maine to buy art. Booth Bay Harbor is a mecca for artists."

In Maine, he worked for four years at a Kmart, while simultaneously completing approximately one painting a week.

TECHNIQUE

"During that time my style changed," he explained. "I had been doing acrylic painting with a palette. It dries in 30 minutes, so you have to do fast paintings. It doesn't allow you to blend colors very well or remember the exact shade of a color if you must put the palette down. So in my earlier paintings, the colors are bright and not blended well."

Nor did the paints dry to similar sheens. "The blacks were flat; the greens were glossy," said Niederer. "It looked awkward. I used a gloss varnish, but I didn't care for that, so I changed to a matte finish."

While working in the Kmart photo center, he discovered he could mix the matte finish with his paints in clear Fuji film containers. It slowed the drying time to one hour and the resulting colors had the same sheen.

"Now I can take my technique from impasto (heavy globs of paint applied with a knife) to real fine line water color (using water to thin the acrylic paint for a transparent look)."

"My style is evolving," he said. "I knew what I wanted to accomplish, but I struggled trying to get there until I discovered the canisters."

During the same period—the mid 1980s—Niederer entered a painting in the National Arts for the Parks competition. Although he did not win, simply knowing the top prize was $100,000 was "a great impetus. It made a change in my art. If it was good, it deserved a little more attention to detail for $100,000."

FIRST BIG AWARD

In 1990, Niederer's "Jordan Stream" won a 1st prize in the Maine Sportsman Show, his first win in a major competition. In a great departure from his earlier quick works, he spent 80 hours on that painting alone.

Currently he is painting a series of up to 30 landscapes and seascapes in Acadia National Park. Some of them are displayed and on sale at Sarah's Pizza in Wiscasset, Maine.

While visiting his family in Grayling this summer, he completed a painting of the old Niederer ice house, located east of Shellenbarger Creek on M-72 East.

He said he also plans to sell some of his prints in Grayling at M & M Crafts/ Mary's Corner Book Swap on Michigan Avenue.

Regarding his inclusion in Artists of New England, Niederer said, "I've known for a long time that you have to get more notoriety in national markets. My quality was surpassing what was selling in Augusta. Being published in this book is helping to bridge that gap."

In addition to painting, he is presently employed as a special education teacher in Augusta, where he works with elementary students with behavioral problems.

"They're all creative kids," he said. "I have a boy coming in (the program) who tests out at the genius level, but he can't get along with anybody."

"I have the sense about those kids and about artists that—due to their sensitivity—they perhaps see more of what society doesn't wish to see. They don't often know how to handle what they know and their knowing can come in a variety of ways. Sometimes they can't prove what they know."

"Society makes certain choices," he continued. "It says to people, 'You're not going down the right road.' These people are like prophets in a small way—without the religious connotation. They're raising a voice saying, 'Something is out of order.'"

Last summer, he taught arts and crafts at a prestigious boys camp in Fayette, Maine.

"It was fun," he said. "It gave me eight weeks to be as creative as I wished to be and still get paid for it."

Niederer said that all of his own children are creative, artistically and musically. He teaches them at home "if there are unnecessary discipline problems in the classroom."

He said he thinks public schools are not designed to handle the people needed for a well-rounded society—that is, the very gifted.

"Schools don't adjust real well to the little fine tunings society needs to stay running at top efficiency. The problem is no fault of their own; they're just not set up that way. I believe parents have a better handle on what their children need than schools."

"I don't like to be the person who rocks the boat unnecessarily, because some people need public school. But home schooling is very easy in Maine."

PHILOSOPHY

Niederer said he doesn't paint much that humans have made. "I never have the same feeling as when I'm painting something alive."

"I believe that when you're painting a tree, you have to become a tree. Things in nature tend to be very single-minded in their pursuit of life. I find a great deal of peace and calmness because they don't have a lot of uncluttered energy that humans have."

"Humans are always trying to be made into something they're not supposed to be. It's a world pastime to put others down, to not be connected with what we're supposed to be. My artwork is designed to let people know there is a much greater order of things that man should be fitting into."

County business

Discussion took place on the purchase of additional communications equipment for the county. Beaver Creek Fire Chief Ed Holtcamp says new township receivers should work well with the new V.H.F. system. Tim Cauley disagreed, saying "we need to get above the vegetation line before we spend further money on receivers."

Emergency communications in the townships are a problem, with at least one Lovells volunteer reporting that her current receiver does not relay 911 information, but merely tones out.

John Doby, Lovells Township Fire Chief, said good receivers can be very expensive -- as much as $14,000 for all the receivers Lovells would need -- thus putting effective communications out of the financial reach of some townships.

THANK YOU

Please accept my sincere thanks to all who have supported me during my term as county commissioner. I am really proud of all of this board's accomplishments. I would also like to thank those who believe that I was the right person for the job of supervisor in Beaver Creek. While I have no plans to run as a write in candidate in November, I have not completely ruled out that possibility. Special thanks to my family, Beth Wieland, and the other five commissioners who have worked so hard to make Crawford County a better place.

I wish to thank all of you for your support in the primary election. I will be looking forward to your support & votes in November, so that I may become your dedicated, community minded sheriff.

Thanks again--

Doodles From The Tall Timber

Wendell L. Hoover Park Interpreter, Hartwick Pines State Park

I received a key for the new Visitor Center last week, and the final storyline and exhibit plan nears completion. The building is finished inside except for a few details that await delivery of needed small items. The work outside the building will not be completed for a while yet due to delays in manufacturing of material for the raised walkway.

Photos and information are being gathered for the slide program, but it is too early to say exactly what direction it will take. I can assure you it will be very good, based upon those done in the past by the Interpretive Crew at Hoffmaster. As I have mentioned before, they have the necessary equipment and talents to develop a high quality audio-visual program.

Black Iron Days is just around the corner and it is shaping up to be one of the best ever. The Friends Group, a number of crafts people and the Park Staff, put a lot of effort into each festival. The three festivals attract a large number of visitors to the park to be sure, but they also make use of a variety of facilities in the area, which is good for you. Your help, encouragement and involvement in the Friends Group can make the festivals and the park even more attractive, so why not get involved. I have a feeling you would enjoy it. The next Friends Meeting is at 7:30 p.m. at the Park Headquarters on August 20th.

BIKE WINNER—Joseph Miller, Jr., age 9, of Grayling, was the winner of a new bicycle in the third annual Bird House Contest sponsored by the Camp Grayling Conservation Club. Joe reported the first bluebirds, hatched in his birdhouse.

Hunter safety course offered

Hunter safety instruction leading to certification will again be offered by the Camp Grayling Conservation Club. A requirement for licensing of all new hunters, the instruction will be given at Camp Grayling, by instructors certified through the Michigan Department of Natural Resources.

The eleven-hour block of training will be held on the evenings of August 27 and 28, from 5:30 until 8:30 p.m., and from 8:30 a.m. until finished on Saturday, August 29. Attendance at all sessions is needed for certification. Instruction and materials are provided at no cost to students. Students must be at least twelve years old and adults are welcome.

To register, call Ronald Latuszek at 348-3828, (348-6153 evenings), or Dennis Palmer at 348-4038, (348-7432 evenings). Size of the class will be limited to the first forty-five registrants.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED—Mr. and Mrs. James Liberty would like to announce the engagement of their daughter, Dawn Christine to James Joseph Bryan. An August 22 wedding is being planned.

Library pre-school story hour registration closes September 4

It is once again time to start thinking about the pre-school story hour. The programs will be on Wednesday at 2 p.m.

To register your child, stop in at the Crawford County Library after August 17, or call 348-9214 for more information.

Registration will run through September 4th. It is on a first come basis and limited to 25 children. Children must be 3 years old by June 1, 1992.

Lovells News

Verse or Worse

By Joe Murphy

Just Living

I guess some folks look at things in a different way
Than an old country boy like me
They worry about a lot of things
That may or may not ever be

If the economy is good they worry
That someday it might go bad
That they may lose all today's luxuries
That their forefathers never had

They've never seen the under belly of life
Never had to struggle to survive
Had to work hard every blessed day
For just enough to stay alive

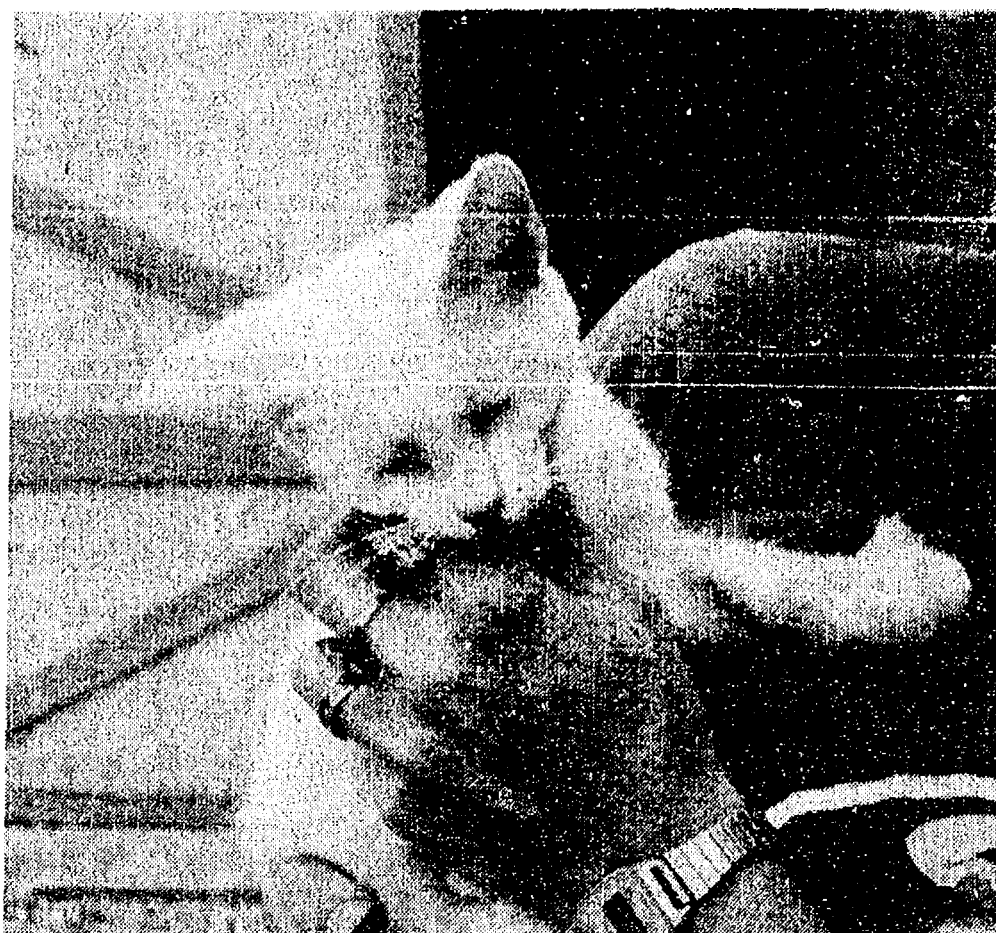

Should take that sick baby to the doctor
But there's no money his bill to pay
All he can do is the best he can
And get down and really pray

Every day of his life was a struggle
As his callused hands will attest
He has never heard of a vacation
He's grateful for a few minutes rest

Our forefathers lived a tough, hard life
Were able to take what ever life had in store
There was no time to worry about the future
For the future was surviving one day more

Think of how life was in your grandfather's day
A time when just living was their goal
Don't you think you're man enough
To follow and play his role

He said he gave permission to Homer Annis to finish felling the tree if he would take it away.

There still is a culprit in the woodpile. The question is, who were the person or persons who first attempted to fall the landmark. It appears instead of cattle rustling, as in the frontier days, someone tried to tree rustle.

The Whole Language Model

This article reviews and summarizes an article written by Samuel L. Blumenfeld in the August 10, 1992 issue of The New American entitled, "The Whole Language Fraud."

"A simple way to prepare a nation for a Godless world system is to remove religious faith and values from its children's education." This is the goal of the "whole language model" built to deconstruct any notion of absolute truth, and the literal comprehension from a written text. Instead of being taught to read objectively and learn what the author meant by his words, the student is taught to read subjectively and to bring his own "reader-created meanings" into the text. Derrida, the author of this system is quoted as saying, "deconstruction emphasizes the reader's role in extracting meaning from texts and the impossibility of determining absolute meaning."

Blumenfeld says, "... not only do the whole-language deconstructionists reject the concept of absolute truth as applied to the written word, they reject the very system of logical thinking that made Western civilization possible. They not only reject the Bible, they reject Aristotle's A is A. Their new formula is A can be anything you want it to be, which can only be the basis of a pre-literate or non-literate culture in which subjectivism and superstition prevail as the means of knowing."

To reveal the reasoning behind these "progressive" educators, Blumenfeld quotes an article entitled "Political Philosophy and Reading Make A Dangerous Mix" as published in Education Week for February 27, 1985:

"After spending six years observing the efforts of the self-styled 'New Right' to influence education throughout the country, we have found a pattern of activities that could, if some members of the New Right are successful, cause a very limited model for teaching reading to prevail in both public and private schools. (They fear phonics.) The model is based on the belief that literal comprehension is the only goal of reading instruction. Because it trains children to reason in a very limited manner, it is a model that we believe could have serious political consequences. ..."

Is the Bible God's absolute standard of infallible truth? Did God say what He meant, and mean what He said? Are there contrasting moral absolutes revealed to us in the Bible like God/Satan, angels/demons, holy/evil, truth/error, righteous/sinful, salvation/damnation, Heaven/Hell, godly/demonic, right/wrong, and good/bad? "So then faith [cometh] by hearing, and hearing by the word of God," (ROM 10:17). Jesus said, "... when the Son of man cometh, shall he find faith on the earth?" (LUK 18:8).

Stancil to perform in piano recital

Grayling native Jordan Stancil will perform a piano recital at the Michelson Memorial Methodist Church of Grayling on Wednesday, August 19, at 7 p.m.

Stancil, 18, began his piano study with Janet Dice of Grayling and currently studies with Wayne Wyrembelski of Gaylord. This fall, Stancil will attend the University of Michigan School of Music and College of Literature, Science and the Arts, where he will pursue degrees in music and history.

The Meadows Of Grayling News

By Carolyn Poll

On August 12th we served up a strawberry shortcake day, while some of the staff wore red to enhance the special occasion. Lillian King scooped up the ice cream to place on the cake while Bea Buchanan poured the strawberry on. Lou Ann Crosby dabbled the whip topping and Tom Buchanan served. The Men's Club met that evening supervised by Allen Musakka.

On August 14th, we took our second group fishing and hooked nine fish to be baked Monday the 17th.

August 21st will be our annual volunteer dinner at Chief Shoppenagon's starting at 1 p.m. to give thanks to our most precious volunteers. On August 31st our monthly family support group will begin at 7 p.m. in the A Wing Meeting Room.

A garage sale is planned for August 31st — all items to be sold for 50¢. Proceeds go to the resident council. Don't forget the annual picnic on September 12th beginning at 11 a.m. Food, musical entertainment and games are offered.

Bits of Talk

August has been a month of reunions for the four Wilson brothers and their families at their summer cottage on Lake Margrethe, with Michael vacationing from Cold Spring Harbor, Long Island, N.Y.; James Axel from Haines, Alaska; and John and Robert checking in from Livonia and Redford, respectively. Their parents, Andrew and Jean (Michelson) Wilson, will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary by repeating their vows at their home parish, St. Scholastica Church, Detroit, August 22. They were married on that date in 1942 at the Key Field Army Air Base chapel, Meridan, Mississippi.

Each child is unique. Though he may look like his mother or act like his father, his particular combination of traits is unlike any other.

Each child needs to know this. He may not be as good an athlete as his brother or as good a student as his sister, but he should be appreciated for the good qualities he has, whatever they may be.

A child develops self-worth from many sources — from parents, grandparents, and teachers. The church teaches him that he is important also, for Christ taught us that He loved each of us just as we are. Let your child know that God loves him — that he is unique and irreplaceable.

Tell him — "There is no one like you."

Lincoln to bike 150 miles to raise funds for American Lung Association

Keith Lincoln of Grayling, will enjoy a weekend of fresh air, fall colors and a lot of exercise biking on the American Lung Association of Michigan's Leelanau Lakeshore Loop. Lincoln will bike the shores of the Leelanau Peninsula from Saturday, September 12, through Monday, September 14 raising funds to help fight our nation's number three killer: lung disease.

He will ride a total of 150 miles on this three-day trip, raising a minimum of $225. The funds Lincoln raises will help provide the many free community health programs offered by the American Lung Association. Among those services is a medical equipment loan program, pulmonary function testing and a summer camp for severely asthmatic children.

The tour of the Traverse City area will begin in the quaint town of Suttons Bay, follow the shores of Lake Michigan, explore the famous Sleeping Bear Dunes through Leland Harbor and Northport and culminate at the Sugar Loaf Mountain Resort in Cedar, Michigan. Of course, riders can also look forward to not only enjoying the many beautiful sights along the shore but to climbing the many infamous hills throughout the Leelanau Peninsula.

There's still time to register for this year's trip. For more details about the "Bicycle Around Michigan!" trek call the American Lung Association at 1-800-678-LUNG or (313) 559-5100, Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Bits Of Talk

by Fay Bovee

An 80th birthday celebration was held for Marie Reeves on Saturday, August 15, at Chief Shopenagons with friends and family. Marie has been a long-time volunteer for the Crawford County Daycare Center. She also volunteers at the Fish Hatchery and at the Senior Citizens Center.

Brad and Ramona Jarmin recently enjoyed a visit from Ramona's children and their families at their home on Michigan Avenue. Her daughter, Gail Burch arrived from Vallejo, California, to spend a week. She enjoyed a visit to Mackinac Island and the Soo and to other places of interest in the area. Her son, Larry Burch, his wife, Debi and their daughters, Cara and Cori from Broken Arrow, Oklahoma, were here also and spent several days enjoying the area, including a canoe trip on the AuSable.

Her daughter, Nancy Snell and husband, Jay, and their children, Daniel, Keith, and Peter from Eugene, Oregon, also visited at the same time and enjoyed, among other things, the canoe trip with Larry and his family. Nancy and Jay arrived after a trip through Canada enroute to Grayling. Unable to be here with their parents were Gail's children, Andrew and Lynne and Larry and Debi's son, Craig. This is the first time the family has been together in a number of years, and it was the first time any of them had visited Michigan.

DOG WALK-A-THON—Lady Von Shadow of Jenelle, owned by Jenelle McClain, and Twin Maples Echo of Lex, owned by Linda Sprague, will join Frosty, the Animal Shelter of Crawford County's mascot (with Dixie Lobsinger), in a dog walk-a-thon to raise money for the needy animals of the county. The German shepherd pups are the granddaughters of the late Lex Vom Barenzwinger, Crawford County's police dog for many years. Area residents are encouraged to walk with Frosty and the girls (or make a pledge to a walking team) in the September 6 event.

Dog walk-a-thon to raise funds for animal shelter

The Animal Shelter of Crawford County will sponsor its first Dog Walk-a-thon on September 6, beginning at 9:30 a.m. in the parking lot of Grayling State Bank (GSB). All funds raised from the event will go toward the support of the shelter.

People accompanied by their dogs will walk from GSB to the park in Frederic, a distance of approximately seven miles.

Anyone who wants to participate needs to get sponsors. Those interested in walking or in making pledges can call Linda Sprague (348-4084) or Dixie Lobsinger at the animal shelter (348-4117).

"Please get out and get friends and family to make a pledge and walk," said Sprague. "Show that you care about all living creatures."

The shelter will also benefit from the annual Dip-N-Drip Day, scheduled for Sunday, August 23, at Milltown Groomer, 1205 Michigan Avenue (across from Mercy Hospital).

Flea dips for cats and dogs are $5. A bath and flea dip (plus a free nail trim) is $10. Pet owners should bring in their own towels.

The shelter will hold a yard sale on Friday-Sunday, September 4-6. All profits from the sale will go to the shelter.
